

Math Reading Challenge

2021

- A work of fiction in which a character goes to a math class _____
- A math book published at least 50 years ago _____
- A biography of a woman in math _____
- A math book that makes you laugh _____
- A book with a geometric design on the cover _____
- A book related to geometry _____
- A nonfiction math book written by a person of color _____
- A math book that intimidates you _____
- A book about connections between math and biology or medicine _____
- A math book not originally written in your native language _____
- A math book you meant to read in 2020 _____
- A math history or biography focused on mathematics or a mathematician from Africa, Asia, or a group indigenous to the Americas or Oceania _____

Share your recommendations and reading list by joining the Math Reading Challenge group on Goodreads or using the #MathReadingChallenge2021 hashtag on Twitter.

Happy math reading!

© Evelyn Lamb 2021